

Views from the saddle: Gareth Morgan spoke about property and superannuation.

Talk benefits hospice

By Sarah Coddington

An economic commentator had more to talk about than financial advice at a charity show.

The Bruce Mason Centre hosted world-by-bike adventurers Jo and Gareth Morgan last week to share their travel adventures in the Investment Adventurer Series. Mr Morgan also talked about New Zealand's property market and superannuation industry.

The $10,000 raised from ticket sales went to North Shore Hospice.

Funding development manager Gaynor Larsen says the money will be used in the in-patient unit, to which just under half of the hospice's patients are admitted.

"The donation will really help us in this tight economic time," says Ms Larsen.
